

CONFERENCE ANNOUNCEMENT AND CALL FOR PAPER

International Conference on

PEACEFUL DEVELOPMENT AND DEEPENING INTEGRATION IN THE GREATER CHINA REGION

National Chengchi University, Taipei
11-12 June, 2009

The College of International Affairs, National Chengchi University (CIA-NCCU) and the Association of Chinese Political Studies (ACPS) will co-organize an international conference at National Chengchi University between June 11 and 12, 2009, with check-in date on June 10, 2009 and departure date on June 13, 2009.

Conference Theme:

Conference organizers invite papers which investigate any aspect of the integration in the great China region under the new political environment that has emerged in recent months. Papers can address the major issues and challenges (including political, economic, social, environmental, legal, foreign policy, regional security and peace, regional and global governance) facing Taiwan and Chinese mainland. Papers tracking the implications of the recent Taiwan elections, the dynamics and effect of cross-strait leadership dialogue, the normalization of economic exchanges, the thaw in cross-strait relations and its implications for international society in general and the Asia-Pacific in particular, Taiwan's participation in international organizations, the role of China along the path of "peaceful development" in shaping cross-strait relations and affecting the rest of the world, as well as the influence of various actors from Hong Kong, Macau, and Taiwan on the politico-economic reform and development in mainland China are especially welcome. Well researched conference papers will have the opportunity: (1) to be published in Journal of Chinese Political Science (JCPS); and/or (2) to be published in edited books flowing from the conference.

Submission:

Scholars and researchers who are working in the related fields are invited to submit proposals for consideration. Please send proposals no later than December 31, 2008. Paper proposals should include paper title, names of authors, institutional affiliation, title/position, mailing address, phone number, fax number, e-mail address, and an abstract of 250-300 words – everything in one page. Paper proposals should be emailed to both Dr. Chung-chian Teng at ccteng@nccu.edu.tw and Dr. Baogang Guo at bguo@daltonstate.edu. To facilitate the selection process, it is hoped that authors can put "2009 ACPS-NCCU conference paper proposal" in the subject line of the emails.

International or Chinese mainland travelers who need letters of invitation for the purpose of obtaining travel documents should contact cia_con@nccu.edu.tw

Conference Accommodations:

Conference organizers will provide accommodations for three nights for international and Chinese mainland participants at Howard International House in Taipei.

All international participants whose paper proposals are accepted will receive free conference accommodations, and must submit full papers no later than May 20, 2009.

Acceptance of Paper and Conference Registration:

Conference organizers will issue the notification of acceptance of the paper proposals no later than January 30, 2009. Overseas participants whose paper proposals are accepted, and who have paid ACPS membership due, need only to pay the registration fees of US$65 (non-refundable). For non-ACPS members, the participants must pay the registration fees of US$145. Please use the form below for conference registration. The registration form and fees must be received by March 1, 2009 to secure room and board, or the late registration fee ($95 USD, non-refundable) will be charged after March 1, 2009.
